

A Quote from Ray McGee,

General Manager Customer Service, United Airline UK Operations

You integrated within our framework quickly and professionally.

You have established good working relationships across the United Airlines network and has injected a good level of confidence with your adaptable approaches towards the project and our programme planning. You have used your considerable project management process well in support of our operations team, who have limited subject matter expertise.

29th October 2007